 SUMMER, Sun enters ♊, June 21, 0h 31m evening.
 AUTUMN, Sun enters ♏, Sept. 23, 2h 36m morning.

ECLIPSES.

There will be five eclipses this year, viz : two of the sun and three of the moon.

1° —6th January. The moon will be eclipsed visibly at Quebec ; beginning at 1h. 58m. morning ; conjunction 3h. 0m. ; middle 3h. 8m. ; end 4h. 18m. ; duration of the eclipse 2h. 20m ; digits eclipsed 5° 43' on the northern limb of the moon.

2° —20th January. The sun will be eclipsed, invisibly at Quebec, but centrally in New Zealand, Buenos Ayres, and the Southern part of Chili.

3° —1st July. The moon will be eclipsed visibly, in part, at Quebec. The moon will rise eclipsed at 7h 50m evening ; middle 7h 54m ; end 9h 32m. Duration of the eclipse 3h 16m ; digits eclipsed 10° 18' on the moon's southern limb.

4° —16th July. The sun will be eclipsed invisibly at Quebec, but visibly in all Europe.

5° —26th December. The moon will be eclipsed, visibly, in part, at Quebec. The moon will rise totally obscured at 4h. 13m. evening ; conjunction 4h. 54m ; middle 4h. 46m ; end of the moon's being totally obscured 5h. 35m ; end of the eclipse 6h. 35m, its duration 3h. 38m ; digits eclipsed 20° 7'. The southern limb of the moon will first emerge from the shadow of the earth.

Of the Changes of the Moon.

Many persons, understanding that the mean time between one new Moon and another is 29 days, 12 hours, 44 minutes and a fraction, imagine that, to find the full or quarters of the Moon, they have only to add a half or fourth part of that time ; and when they do not find the changes marked in the Calendar to correspond with this method, they impute it to mistake in the calculation of those changes. It is therefore necessary to put them in mind, that the great inequality of the Moon's motions renders the above rule extremely inaccurate, so that nineteen times in twenty, it must fail in giving the true conjunction or change.

ECLIPSES.

Il y aura cette année, cinq éclipses, savoir, deux de soleil, et trois de lune :

1^o.—6 Janvier—Eclipse de lune, visible à Québec, commencement à 1h. 58m. du matin—conjonction à 2h. 0m—milieu à 3h. 8m—fin à 4h. 18m—Durée de l'éclipse, 2h. 20m—Doigts éclipsés 5^o 45' sur le bord septentrional de la lune.

A Tide Table for the Harbour of Quebec.

New Moon.	Age of the Moon.		Full Moon.	This Tide Table shews the time of high water on any day of the moon's age nearly, and the stream continues to run one hour and a half after high water, or, in the seaman's phrase, it flows "Tide and Quarter Tide," and this is to be observed in every part of the River.

LIGHT-HOUSES,

LIGHT HOUSE on Pointe DES MONTS.

Keeper, - - Jas. Wallace,
Will shew a light every evening from sunset to sunrise, between the first of April and the thirty-first of Decr. inclusive.

The following Notice was published by the Trinity House, relating to this Light House :—

NOTICE to MARINERS.

That a Light House has been erected on POINTE DES MONTS, (or Cape Monts Pelés) on the north side of the River St. Lawrence, nearly opposite to Cap Chat, the Lantern standing one hundred feet above the water.

The Light House lays with the outermost part of CARIBOU POINT, N. 52° : East and S. 52° . West, by compass, and it can be seen over that point and to the Eastward of it.

Ships approaching the light from the Eastward, as they draw towards Caribou Point must bring it to bear W. by S.; they will then be in a good fair way, and if necessary they can near the land by their Lead.

After passing Caribou Point, and as they draw towards the Light House, they must come no nearer than 12 fathoms water to avoid two ledges of rocks, one of which lays E.S.E. from the Light, with only 12 feet water on it ; the other lays S. W. from the Light, and E. S. E. from the Western extremity of Pointe des Monts, with 16 feet water on it ; but these rocks do not lay farther from the shore than half a mile at low water.

The Light House lays with the western extremity of Pointe des Monts N. 64° . East and S. 64° . West, and distant about one mile ; and when ships are to the Westward of the Point; the Light

LIGHT-HOUSES.

House is in one with the outermost Rocks off the Point; and in the day time it forms a bold distinct Land Mark; and on this line of bearing ships are in the best possible fair way for the general purposes of Navigation, whether bound up or down.

For any particular purposes of Navigation, Ships may safely stand to the Northward, until the Light bears E. by N.; they will then be drawing near the North Land; and when it bears E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. it is time to tack; for when it bears East it will shut in with the High Land and cannot be seen to the Southward of East, and then they will be only one mile from the Land, and if they are off Godbut river, Pointe des Monts will bear from them E. by S. two leagues distant.

When ships are off Saint Nicolas Harbor, and the light bearing E. by N. they are in a good fair way from the North Land. The S. E. spitt of Manicouagan great Shoal, the Ship and the Light House are then all in one line of bearing.

LIGHT HOUSE on S. W. Point of ANTICOSTI.

Keeper—Lt. Harvey, h. p. Royal Navy.

A Light-House having been erected on the South West point of the Island of Anticosti, Notice is hereby given that a Grand Revolving Light, on the Argand principle, was shewn thereon for the first time, on the 25th of August 1831—and that the said Light will continue to be shewn every night from Sun-set to Sun-rise, from the 25th da of March to the last day of December in each year.

When Ships are to the eastward of the Light-House, they may safely stand towards the Island until it bears N. N. W. by Compass—they will then be in a good fair way—and if they wish to make more free with the land they can do so by their lead. The land trends from the Light-House S. E. by S. or nearly so.

PILOTAGE REGULATIONS.

When Ships are to the Westward of the Light-House, they may safely stand towards the Island until the Light bears S. S. E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E., they will then be in a good fair way from the Land, and as before mentioned they can make more free by their lead.

Nearly East and West with the Light-House, and about three-fourths of a mile from it, is the outermost part of a Reef of Rocks, which joins the S. W. point. These are dry at low water and are the only dangers near the Light-House; therefore a berth of a mile from the point is a good fair way.

Sixteen leagues to the eastward of the Light-House, at Shallop Creek, and sixteen leagues to the westward of the Light-House, at Grand Bay, and at the Light-House itself are Depôts of provisions for the use of Mariners in distress or other ship-wrecked persons.

ENGLAND.

GOVERNMENT.

The Government of England is a constitutional hereditary monarchy, in which the power of the sovereign is controlled by the influence of the aristocracy in the House of Peers, and by that of the democracy in the House of Commons. The executive authority is vested in the King; the legislative, in the King and Parliament. The King has the power of appointing all the great officers of state, and all the executive acts of the government are performed in his name; but his ministers only are responsible for them.

PARLIAMENT.

The Parliament of Great Britain is the great council of the nation, constituting the legislature, which is summoned by the King's authority, to consult on public affairs, and enact and repeal laws. It consists of Lords Spiritual and Temporal, called the Peers, or Upper House; and Knights, Citizens, or Burgesses, who are comprehended under the name of the Commons, or Lower House. The duration of Parliament was formerly for three years; but the Septennial Act, in 1715, extended the duration to seven years, unless dissolved by the King; but it seldom happens that Parliament sits out this period.

The union with Ireland was carried into effect, January 1st, 1801, and the Parliament, which met the same month, and which included the members from Ireland, is styled the "First Imperial Parliament, or the First Parliament of the United Kingdom."

HOUSE OF LORDS OR PEERS.

The Lords Temporal are Peers of the Realm, and are hereditary Counsellors of the Crown; their honors, immunities, and privileges are hereditary. A Peer may vote by proxy; when sitting in judgement he gives his vote not on oath, like a Commoner, but upon his honor. The persons of Peers are for ever sacred and inviolable from arrest and imprisonment for debts, trespasses, &c. They cannot be outlawed in any civil action; nor can any attachment lie against their persons; and they are possessed of various other privileges and immunities.

ENGLAND.

The number of the Lords Temporal is indefinite, and may be increased at the pleasure of the Crown. The ancient nobility sit in the house by descent; the new-made peers, by creation; the 16 representative peers for Scotland, and the 28 representative peers for Ireland, by election; the former are elected for each parliament; the latter for life.

The prerogative which the King enjoys of increasing the peerage at his pleasure, is, when properly exercised, made use of for the purpose of rewarding such as are eminent for their public services; but there are too many instances on record of its application to purposes of favoritism.

HOUSE OF COMMONS :—REFORM.

The House of Commons consists of knights, citizens, and burgesses, respectively chosen by counties, cities, and boroughs. It is not accurately and satisfactorily ascertained at what precise period the Parliament, as it is now constituted, was formed; that is, when the Commons first began to compose a distinct assembly from the Lords; but the generally received opinion is, that the Parliament was, on the whole, much the same as it now is, so long ago as the 17th year of King John, A. D. 1215. (See "New Edinburgh Encyclopedia," Vol. VIII, p. 616.) The first Speaker, certainly known, was Petrus de Mountford, chosen in 1260, in the reign of Henry III. See "Key to both Houses of Parliament."

Since the period when the House of Commons was first constituted, various changes have taken place with respect both to the number of members, and the places represented. In the reign of Henry VI, the number of members was upwards of 300; in the first parliament of Henry VIII, 298; in the time of Sir Edward Coke, 493; and since the union of Ireland with Great Britain, in 1801, 658.

Many of the boroughs which have hitherto sent members to parliament, have become decayed, while many other towns which have not heretofore enjoyed this privilege, have, in modern times, become important for their population, wealth, and trade. There has long existed a numerous party in Great Britain that has been desirous of obtaining a representation better accommodated to the existing state of the country, by disfranchising the rotten or decayed boroughs, by enfranchising large modern towns, and by extending the right of voting, in order to render the elections more free;—thus making the House of Commons a body more effectually representing all those classes of the people that have a valuable stake in society. During the last two years the country has been greatly agitated and convulsed on the question of Parliamentary Reform.

On the 1st of March, 1831, the first Bill containing the plan of Reform of Earl Grey and his ministry, was introduced into the Commons by Lord John Russell, which passed to a second reading on the 22d of March by a vote of 302 to 301; but afterwards, on a question relating to the bill, the ministry were left in the minority, 291 voting with them, 299 against them; and on the 22d of April, the Parliament was dissolved by the King, who “had recourse to the measure,” to use the language of his speech, “for the purpose of ascertaining the sense of his people on the expediency of a Reform in the Representation.”

The following statement respecting the House of Commons that was dissolved April 22d, 1831, is taken from the “Key to both Houses of Parliament.”

The new parliament, of which a large majority were pledged to support Reform, assembled on the 14th of June, 1831, and was opened on the 21st of the same month by a speech from the King, who "recommended the question of a Reform in the Representation to their earliest and most attentive consideration;" and on the 24th, Lord John Russell obtained leave again to bring in the Reform Bill, which passed in the House of Commons to a 2d reading, on the 6th of July, by a vote of 267 to 235, and to the 3d reading, on the 22d of Sept., by a vote of 349 to 236; but on the 8th of Oct. it was rejected in the House of

ENGLAND.

Lords by a vote of 199 to 158 ; and on the 29th of the same month, the Parliament was prorogued.

On the 6th of December the Parliament was again opened by a speech from the King ; and on the 12th, Lord John Russell introduced a new Reform Bill resembling the former in its general features, and declared to be "equally efficient." On the 18th, it passed in the House of Commons to a second reading by a vote of 324 to 162 ; and on the 23d of March, 1832, to a 3d reading by a vote of 355 to 139. On the 13th of April, it passed to a second reading in the House of Lords by a vote of 184 to 175 ; but on the 7th of May, an amendment was introduced by Lord Lyndhurst, which passed by a vote of 151 to 116, leaving the ministry in a minority. Lord Grey then advised the King to create such a number of peers as was necessary to insure the success of the Bill, tendering his resignation as the alternative, which latter was accepted ; but after an ineffectual attempt by the Duke of Wellington to form a ministry, it was announced on the 18th of May, in both houses of Parliament, that Lord Grey and his colleagues had been reinstated in office, with the assurance of having the necessary means of carrying the measure in question. On the 4th of June the Bill passed to a 3d reading in the House of Lords by a vote of 106 to 22 ; and on the 7th of the same month the royal assent was given to it by commission.

By this Reform Act, which is deemed of great importance both by its friends and its enemies, 56 of the rotten or decayed boroughs have been wholly disfranchised, 30 other boroughs which formerly returned 2 members each, are hereafter to return 1 only ; the united borough of Weymouth and Melcombe Regis, which formerly sent 4 members, is hereafter to send but 2 ; 22 new boroughs in England, are to send two members each ; 19 new boroughs in England, one member each ; 62 representatives are added to the English county members ; 3 to the county members and 2 to the borough members of Wales ; 5 to the members from Scotland ; and 5 to those from Ireland.

The Reform Act extends the right of voting in the election of members for cities and boroughs, to every male person of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity, who occupies within such city or borough, as owner or tenant, any house, warehouse, counting-house, shop, or other building, of the clear yearly value of not less than ten pounds; provided such person shall have paid the poor rates and assessed taxes; and in the election of county members, to every such male person, who shall be in actual occupation of a freehold for life, or of lands or tenements of copyhold, of the clear yearly value of not less than ten pounds above all rents and charges.

In England a county member of parliament must possess real property to the amount of £600 per annum; and a borough member, £300; but in Scotland no such qualification is required.

Lord John Russell, in his speech on introducing the first Reform Bill (March 1, 1831), made the following statement respecting the number of voters that would be added by that bill,

Number added in towns and boroughs in
England already sending members,	110,000
Electors of towns in England sending members for the first time,	50,000
Electors in London who will obtain the right of voting.	95,000

In Ireland, perhaps,	40,000

County Members under the Reform Act.

The Counties of England formerly returned 2 members each, except Yorkshire, which returned 4; total, 82—and the Welsh Counties, 1 each,—total, 12. By the Reform Act the number of the County Members of England is raised to 144; of Wales, to 15. The following 26 English Counties are divided, and return 4 members each; viz. EDUCATION.

England has two richly endowed Universities, Oxford and Cambridge. The number of members on the books (including undergraduates,) and of the undergraduates, is here given for 1832.

	Professors,	Members,	Undergraduates.
Oxford,	29	5,274	1,417

Some of the other literary institutions are the London University, with 29 professors and (in 1829) 437 students; King's College, London, with 23 professors; the East India College, Haylebury, with 9 professors; St. David's College, Lampeter, with 5 professors; Eton College; and Winchester College. According to returns, made in 1818, there were 4,187 endowed schools, with a revenue of £3,000,525; and 14,282 unendowed schools. Common schools have been much increased within a few years; but England is still behind Scotland with respect to the general diffusion of education. The number of Sunday Schools in England and Wales, connected with the Sunday School Union, reported in 1831, was 5,775; teachers, 88,860; scholars, 778,612.

RELIGION.

The established religion of Scotland is Presbyterianism, which includes about three-fourths of the population. The most numerous class of dissenters from the established church, are more rigid Presbyterians than the members of the establishment, and generally strict Calvinists.

The revenue of the clergy of the established church arises from rents of land or tithes, called teinds, and from glebe lands, minimum extent of which is 4 acres of arable land, with as much pasture ground as will feed a horse and 2 cows. The amount of free teinds of 172 parishes out of 890, is less than £100; and in 1810, the government enacted that the minimum stipend should be, in addition to the manse and glebe, £150; and that the sum required to make up this income (amounting to £10,000 annually), should be paid out of the treasury. There is comparatively but little inequality in the income of the Scottish clergy; the average, including manse and glebe, is computed at £285, and very few, except in some of the large towns, have more than £350. In Edinburgh the income of the ministers is computed at nearly £700.

SCOTLAND.

The established church comprises 15 synods, 78 presbyteries, 910 parishes, and 940 clergymen.

EDUCATION.

Scotland has been long noted for its excellent system of education for all ranks of society. It was enacted during the reign of William and Mary that "there shall be a school and schoolmaster in every parish in Scotland." The salary of the schoolmaster, in 1805, was from £16 13s. 4d. to £22. 4s. 5d., together with a dwelling house with at least two apartments, and a quarter of an acre of land for a garden. The fees in the country parishes vary from 1s 6d. to 5s. a quarter. From returns made in 1825, from 764 parishes in 10 synods, it appeared that these parishes were well supplied with the means of education, and there was scarcely an individual who had not been taught to read; but in the other synods, situated chiefly among the Highlands and the islands, there was a great want of schools.—The number of Sunday Schools, in 1851, was 1,550; scholars, 66,116.

EDUCATION.

The University of Dublin is a well endowed Protestant institution, with 18 professorships, students in 1828, 1,254.

The Royal Catholic College of Maynooth, partly supported by the government, has 10 professors; and the College of Carlow, 4 professors.

The means of education possessed by the great mass of the people, are very limited; yet instruction is sought after by the poor with great avidity.

CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE.

According to the returns of houses in 1791, there were :

Houses inhabited by paupers,	112,556
Houses having only 1 hearth and not inhabited by paupers,	515,346
Houses having 2 hearths,	33,785
Houses having 3 hearths,	10,216
Houses having more than 3, but less than 9 hearths,	23,299
Houses having from 11 to 144 hearths,	5,900
Total,	701,102

* Mr. Stanley, the secretary for Ireland, stated in the House of Commons, Jan. 19, 1832, "that the returns of the population (for 1831,) would not be ready for some time; but the whole amount was 7,734,000, being an increase of $13\frac{1}{2}$ per c. on the census of 1821."

IRELAND.

This statement indicates, what is notoriously the fact, that the great mass of the people of Ireland are extremely poor. The number of inhabited houses since the above date has much increased ; in 1821, it was 1,142,602 ; but the condition of the people has probably not been, on the whole, improved. " Four mud walls with one entrance, and frequently without either window or chimney, constitute an irish hovel. The rent of these cabins is from one to two guineas a year. To each cabin there is commonly annexed about one acre of ground, which is cropped with potatoes, oats, and flax. There are numbers of peasants who have not a bedstead, nor even a truckle bed-frame. They sleep on a bundle of straw or heath laid on the clay floor ; sheets are scarcely known, and their blankets are scanty and tattered. Their food is almost entirely potatoes and milk, and their fuel turf."
